BURMESE BROWN TORTIE KITTEN

1ST BOB WILSON'S SHIVERENE RAPHAELITE 27e

An attractive brown tortie kiten not yet 4 months old. Short blunt wedge, wide cheek bones, very slight teething pinch to muzzle. Gently rounded top of head, good width between medium sized round tipped ears which did have a slight forward tilt. Sitting well apart so that the outer line of the ears continue the shape of the upper part of the face. In profile she showed good depth to head, straight nose with a distinct break and the chin in the same vertical plane as tip of nose. Bright expressive chartreuse eyes, large and lustrous, good top line slanting towards nose and a gently rounded bottom line. Only a baby but a good size and weight, medium length body, rounded chest, straight back, slender legs, back legs higher than front ones , neat oval paws. Straight tail medium thickness to base tapering to a rounded tip, good length reaching her shoulders Well mingled coat, brown still a little grey in parts, broken with shades of red ,which was extremely pale in places. On tummy in bikini line it was even paler , but in the hall lights it wasn't a definite white so gave her the benefit of the doubt. A couple of faint broken necklaces to chest. Coat was a fine texture a little kitten long but did lie close over body and had a healthy shine to it. A lovely alert kitten, very happy being shown and so easy to handle.

Another attractive female a seal tortie. Quite a shy cat, she did like to be covered with her blankets .Moderately long wedge, almost straight profile , rather a flat forehead which does slope back. richer deeper shade of red. Tortie shading to body, some contrast visible. Strong long muscular body, slim long legs, neat small paws and a tapering whip tail. Well shown in good condition, rather nervous so didn't show herself off too well.
