Ears	Small, rounded at the tips. Set far apart fitting into (without distorting) the rounded contour of the head. External ear to be well covered with fur, internal furnishings not to be excessive.
Eyes	Large, round and well-opened. Set wide apart with no tendency to Oriental shape. No squint.
Body	Cobby type with short level back. Low on legs with deep chest. Equally massive across the shoulders and the rump. Medium to large, but not rangy.

NON-SELF COLOURS AND PATTERNS

TABBY

Classic Tabby Pattern

All markings to be clearly defined and dense. On the forehead there should be a letter 'M' giving the impression of a frown. There should be an unbroken stripe running back from the outer corner of the eye and narrow lines on the cheeks. On the neck and upper chest there should be unbroken necklaces, the more the better. The edges of the ears to be the same colour as the markings with a central patch of ground colour resembling a thumb-print.

A series of lines runs from above the 'M' marking, over the top of the head and extends to the shoulder markings. The shoulder markings form the outline of a butterfly, when viewed from above. Both upper and lower 'wings' should be clearly defined with the central areas broken by small areas of ground colour. On the back there should be an unbroken line running down the spine from the butterfly to the tail, and there should be a stripe on either side of this, running parallel to it. These stripes should be separated from each other by stripes of ground colour. On each flank there should be an 'oyster-shaped' patch which should be surrounded by one or more unbroken rings.

The tail should have complete rings, as numerous as possible, with the tip of the tail being the same colour as the markings. The legs should be barred evenly with bracelets from the body markings to the toes which are spotted. Markings on the hind legs extend (when adult) from the soles of the feet, up the back of the leg, to the hock. The abdominal region should also be spotted. Ground colour and markings should be evenly balanced and both sides of the cat should have identical markings.

Mackerel Tabby Pattern

The Mackerel Tabby Pattern differs from the Classic Tabby Pattern only in the body markings. There should be a narrow unbroken central spine line, on either side of which is a broken spine line from which the narrow lines which form the Mackerel Pattern run vertically down the body; these lines should be as narrow and numerous as possible. The tail rings, which should be as narrow and numerous as possible, may be complete or broken with the tip of the tail being the same colour as the markings.

Coat Colour

Markings - Markings of the appropriate colour to be clearly defined and dense in colour, without brindling, affording a good contrast with the ground colour. The colour should reach as near the roots as possible especially in the standard colours, in the 'silver' breeds the roots of the hairs will tend to be silvered.

Ground Colour - Even, in all areas other than the lips and chin, which may pale significantly but should not be white. A silvery colour in those breeds with the silver gene.

TICKED TABBY

Ticked Tabby Pattern

The coat should be evenly ticked with two or three bands of colour extending well down the hair shaft ending with the base colour at the roots. This ticking may be heavier along the spine line and extend down the length of tail. The face, legs and abdomen clearly show the base colour and on the head the ticking may be more dense, or even solid in kittens, which may clear to an 'M' on the forehead. Other facial markings are as per standard British Classic Tabby standard. Any necklaces may be broken or unbroken but a lack of these is not a fault. Apart from the underside of the abdomen, which should be spotted, the body should be free of spots stripes or blotches. The tail may be ringed with complete or broken rings or have a continuation of the darker colour of the spine line, the tip of the tail being the same colour as the markings. In adults the legs may or may not be barred.

Eye Colour: Copper, orange or deep gold in all colours except the Black Silver Ticked where the eyes should be green or hazel.

Coat Colour :

Markings - Ticking of the appropriate colour affording a good contrast with the base colour. In silvers the colour of the ticking may lack warmth and this should not be penalised.

VAN PATTERN BI-COLOUR

(All colours Preliminary Status)

Coat Colour - Patches of one self-colour and white. The patches of colour should be clear and well defined, without tabby markings (please refer to specific notes on tabby markings for red and cream series). The Van is essentially a predominantly white cat with small patches of colour on the head and a fully coloured tail. Preferably colour(s) on the head should not be below the level of the eye or beyond the base of the rear of the ears, although a slight extension to this colouring will NOT be considered a withholding fault. It should be noted that too little marking on the head is as undesirable as too much. The patches of colour should be clear and well defined, without ghost tabby markings or heavy silver tipping. The colour on the head should preferably be separated by a vertical white blaze. The tail should be fully coloured with no white hairs. For perfection there should be no colour on the body or legs. However, no more than three small colour patches ideally no bigger than a thumb-print may be allowed in an otherwise excellent example of the breed. These patched areas do not need to conform to a uniform shape or be symmetrical.

HARLEQUIN PATTERN BI-COLOUR

(All colours Preliminary Status)

Coat Colour & Pattern

The Harlequin is essentially a higher white cat than the standard Bi -Colour but is not as predominantly white as the Van Pattern. The Harlequin has random patches of colour of any shape, predominantly larger than a thumbprint, on white and allows for colour to be anywhere on the face. Patches can be made up of one self-colour on white and in the case of torties, patches of base colour with red or cream as appropriate on white. White areas must represent well over half of the overall coat, at least 60%.

There should be several patches of colour, preferably with colour on the head and there must be colour on the face. The patches can be small or large but they must be clearly defined with the lines of division between colour and white as free as possible of scattered white hairs between the colour and white. Patches of colour may be surrounded by white as in separate coloured patches or may be joined together with other coloured patches in the case of torties. The tail must be fully coloured from the base to the tip. No white hairs within the coloured areas of patching which should also be free of tabby markings (please refer to specific notes for red and cream series), however, kittens should not be unduly penalized for heavy tabby markings.

Eye Colour : Copper, orange or deep gold.

Nose Leather and Paw Pads: Pink and/or the colour corresponding with the colour of the patches.
